Senator speaks in defense of Bucher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., charged Friday that the Navy is trying to blame Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher for the Pueblo affair rather than the officials who denied him the means to destroy the spy ship's secret equipment.

Dominick, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said in an interview that top Pentagon officials did not tell the committee in briefings last year that Bucher had requested such a destruct system.

Bucher testified at a naval court of inquiry in Coronado, Calif., this week that he requested the destruct system two or three times and that it was rejected because of "money and time."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana predicted at least two Senate committees will want to look into the Pueblo affair.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana predicted at least two Senate committees will want to look into the Pueblo affair.

Mansfield told reporters he thinks the Foreign Relations Committee, of which he is a member, and the Armed Services Committee will want to inquire into all aspects of the Pueblo's capture.

But Mansfield said he does not expect any action until after the naval court of inquiry completes its hearing and announces its findings.

Testimony given last Feb. 1 during the Armed Services Committee's annual hearings on the nation's military posture shows that Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., asked Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, what could be done to prevent future Pueblo-like incidents.

"It seems to me that we must take a very hard look at our destruct mechanism, to take a look at other things that we can do to disab a vessel, so that it can't be moved as easily, if possible," Wheeler said.

Dominick noted that the court of inquiry has told Bucher he may be court-martialed for surrendering his ship to the enemy.

But he said that former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told the committee at the Feb. 1 hearing "his first responsibility was not to attack the harassing vessels but to destroy his equipment."

Pueblo's hearings turn into secrecy

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The captain of the Pueblo, after four days of sometimes anquished public testimony, told a court of inquiry behind closed doors Friday about secret aspects of its capture and the captivity of its crew.

Shaw trial witness in hiding

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Defense lawyers said Friday one of their most important witnesses is hiding in Iowa, afraid to return to New Orleans to testify for Clay Shaw in his trial on a charge of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

The witness, Mrs. Harold McMaines of Des Moines, in sworn testimony last year flatly contradicted a key prosecution witness.

In Des Moines, Mrs. McMaines' attorney said she is hiding, afraid to return for the trial. No reason was given for her fear.

A subpoena for her was obtained last Wednesday by the defense. The past four days of the proceedings have been taken up in selecting eight members of the jury. Testimony may begin next week.

In a deposition taken by the defense last year for a futile hearing aimed at blocking the trial, Mrs. McMaines contradicted earlier testimony of Perry Raymond Russo.

Russo, now a book salesman here, said after his memory was refreshed by hypnosis that he heard Shaw and two other men plotting to kill the president in September 1963.

Russo said he took Mrs. McMaines, then Sandra Moffett, to the party. In her deposition, Mrs. McMaines denied going to the party with him.

Trial Judge Edward A. Hagerty Jr., meanwhile, ruled that the prosecution has the burden of proving an assassination plot was hatched in New Orleans, but does not have to show it led to Kennedy's murder.

Two jurors were selected Friday for the trial of the 55-year-old Shaw, who for years was managing director of the International Trade Mart here.

Cheyney board grants power

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Cheyney State College Board of Trustees has given Cheyney President Wade Wilson authority to take "any action he thought proper" to protect the college, the chairman of the board testified Friday.

Hopson R. Reynolds responded to the attorney for 18 ousted students in the second day of hearings before U. S. District Court Judge Alfred Luongo.

Jury cast set for trial of Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prosecution and defense reached surprise agreement Friday on eight men and four women to try Sirhan Bishara Sirhan on a charge he murdered Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Court was then recessed until next Wednesday, when the defense will argue a motion to quash the Los Angeles County Grand Jury indictment against Sirhan, on grounds the panel is not representative of the community.

Jurors were ordered to report to court next Thursday, but the judge and attorneys indicated testimony in the case—expected to last three months—wouldn't begin until the following week.

The jury agreement came on the last day of the third week of the trial, and about a week earlier than attorneys had indicated they thought they would have a panel.

The defense said during the morning session it would accept the group. The prosecution, after considering it over the noon hour, agreed.

"If the court please," said Deputy Dist. Atty. David N. Fitts, "the people accept."

Selection of six alternate jurors is needed before testimony begins.

Sirhan, slender 24-year-old Jordanian, is accused of fatally shooting Kennedy June 5 after the latter won victory in California's Democratic presidential primary election.

Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker told the newly impaneled jury: "So far as you're concerned the case is recessed until next Thursday at 9:30. . . Do not talk about the case among yourselves or with anyone else. Do not take personal phone calls. . . Keep your health."

He said it is "extremely unlikely" they would be locked up Thursday night in a hotel — as will happen after testimony begins. And he cautioned them that if they bring personal possessions — "don't leave anything in your cars. We've got the finest bunch of thieves in this state."

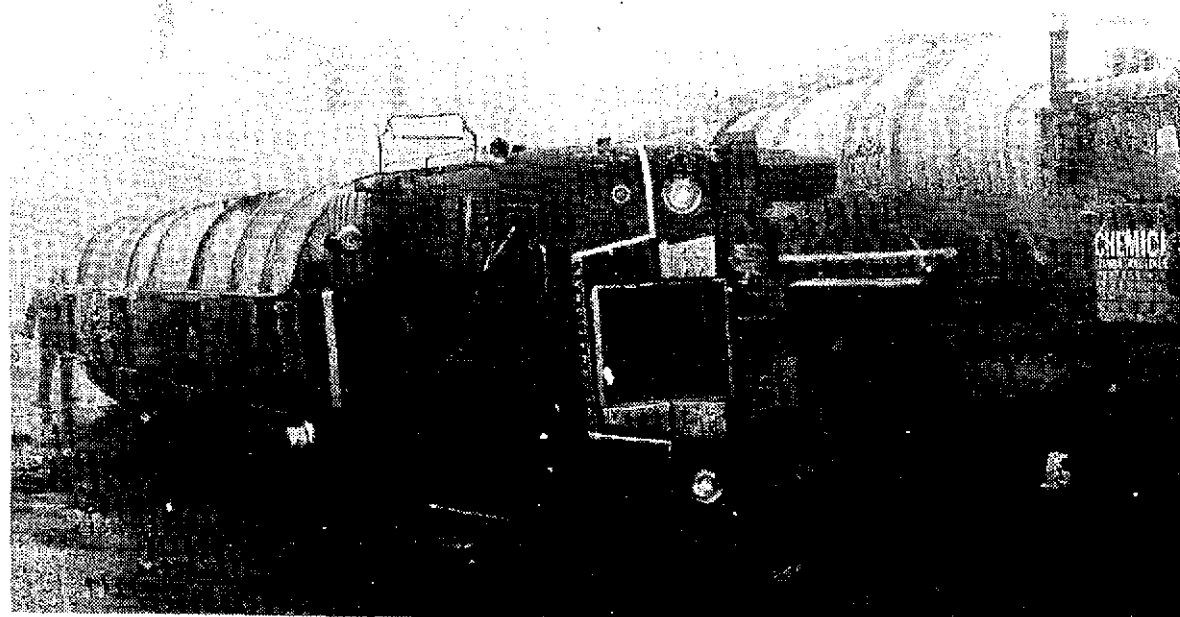

Chief defense attorney Grant B. Cooper said the defense team needs Monday and Tuesday to prepare for presentation of evidence Wednesday on the motion to quash the indictment.

Cooper earlier in the trial had told newsmen that a major reason for attacking the makeup of the grand jury is to lay groundwork for a possible future appeal in the case. The defense contends that because the grand jury selection system excludes persons of certain occupations it is unbalanced.

Czechs pay final tribute

PRAGUE (AP) — By the tens of thousands Czechoslovaks, some weeping, some wailing, paid final tribute Friday night to Jan Palach. On the eve of his funeral, government leaders loosed a barrage of warnings that disorders could plunge the nation into chaos.

Even students in Italy and Austria staged demonstrations of sympathy with Czechoslovak students and the ideals of Palach, the 21-year-old student who committed suicide by fire to protest conditions brought about by Soviet occupation.

Three crashes in Mt. Pocono

MOUNT POCONO — A tractor-trailer loaded with de-icer Friday flipped after it jackknifed and blocked the intersection of Routes 611 and 940 in Mount Pocono for more than six hours.

Mount Pocono Borough Police chief James Carey reported investigating three accidents Friday and all were in the same intersection.

A tractor-trailer, was traveling east on Rt. 940 Friday at 9:15 a.m. and when the driver, Harry G. Kiefer Jr. of Depthford, N.J., applied his brakes the trailer began to jackknife.

In his attempt to straighten the vehicle Kiefer lost control and it crossed the highway and flipped on its side blocking the northbound route of traffic.

Kiefer was injured and taken to Dr. E. O. Hendrick where he was treated and released.

Carey said a second truck was called and it arrived about 4 p.m. A crew pumped the de-icer from the tank and when it was completed wreckers righted the tractor-trailer.

Carey estimated total damage at $12,500.

Icy wintry blasts rip into east

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wintry octopus spread its icy tentacles from the central section south and east Friday as the nation was clutched in some of the worst winter weather in years.

Schools were closed, travel was made difficult, at least one man had trouble getting out of his house and some deer were starving.

Winter maintained its tightest grasp on Montana, which remained under a subzero siege for the seventh consecutive day. At Havre the overnight low was 52 below, breaking a 71-year record for the date.

The midday reading at Havre was 45 below. The state's balmyest spot, Livingston, had 7 below at noon. And no letup was in sight for the state.

A snowstorm was gradually abating across western Minnesota, where many highways were snow-blocked and schools were closed.

Duluth received 12.2 inches of snow, bringing the season total to 102.2 inches, compared with an average of 74.9 for an entire winter.

A Duluth man had to crawl through a window to get out of his house because his front door was locked by freezing rain and there was a 4-foot drift at the back door.

At Rothsay, in west-central Minnesota, where the temperature fell to 16 below Friday, 75 travelers were stranded Thursday night.

A sea of mud pushed up against these homes in Glendora, Calif., Friday causing many people in this neighborhood to evacuate their homes. Steady rains over the last five days has caused over 2.5 million dollars damage to homes in the Glendora-Azusa area, and more rain is forecast for Southern California. (UPI Telephoto)

Ice jam may force town to evacuate

EAST BRANCH, N.Y. (AP) — An ice jam that has threatened this community on the Delaware River for about a week began moving slowly downstream Friday afternoon and the town's 600 residents prepared for evacuation.

The two-mile-long ice floe had been damming up large amounts of flowing water above the town, causing flooding in unpopulated, upstream areas.

About 4 p.m. Friday, the ice started its slow grind downstream from the direction of Roscoe, and the East Branch Fire Department warned residents to be on a preliminary standby to evacuate.

Fire officials, who have set up a 24-hour flood watch along the shores of the Delaware, could not estimate when flooding of the town might occur, saying it would depend on how the ice and water backs up into the eddies of the Delaware.

Townpeople were transporting truckloads of sand to place around the 300 or so buildings threatened by inundation.

47 forced to land in Cuba

MIAMI (AP) — A Navy deserter who said he didn't want to kill in Vietnam hijacked a National Airlines jet to Cuba Friday, forcing along 46 other persons, including a grieving widow taking her husband's body home.

National Stewardess Kim Tatum said four minutes after the plane departed Key West for Miami the hijacker "grabbed me around the neck and put a knife to my neck with the other hand" and demanded the flight be diverted to Cuba.

The man jammed himself and Miss Tatum into a rear corner of the passenger compartment and had the hostesses relay his orders to the pilot in the cockpit.

Stewardess Sue Morrill said the hijacker told her he was a 19-year-old American who had deserted from the Navy at San Diego, Calif.

Miss Morrill said he told her: "I don't want to kill. I don't want to go to Vietnam."

The 22-year-old stewardess said the hijacker was "fidgety" and appeared reluctant to walk down the landing steps once they arrived at Havana's Jose Marti Airport.

He hesitated when he saw the uniformed Cuban soldiers waiting for him at the bottom of the stairs, she said. "He didn't want to leave. He almost had tears in his eyes. It was the type of deal where he didn't know what he wanted to do."

Miss Morrill said the air pirate had shaggy, but not long hair, and was dressed in tight slacks and sport shirt.

All but one of the passengers were ordered off the plane and bussed to Varadero where they were to be picked up later by a chartered plane sent from Miami.

Allowed to accompany the crew was Mrs. Lelf E. Deskins who was taking her husband's body back to their home in Bell, Ky. Deskins died while vacationing in this tropical island city just 90 miles from Cuba.

The hijacking was the eighth flight diverted to Cuba since the first of the year.

Riots force Pakistan to curfew

DACCA, Pakistan (AP) — Military troops were called in and a curfew declared as thousands of rioters spread through Dacca Friday, attacking and burning government buildings during a student-led general strike.

Radio Pakistan reported three persons killed in Dacca and one killed in the port city of Chittagong, 120 miles south of here, as the disorders spread to other parts of the country.

The violence posed a new threat to President Mohammed Ayub Khan who has been under mounting criticism for months for jailing government opposition leaders and cracking down on student dissidents.

Friday's outbreaks began with a general strike called by student leaders at Dacca University to protest the shootings by police earlier this week of three youths, one fatally, in an antigovernment demonstration.

With Dacca, capital of East Pakistan with more than four million inhabitants, virtually paralyzed and deserted, thousands of demonstrators supporting the strike slipped into the streets and violence soon flared.

The Nixon administration proposed to turn over the old, abandoned Brooklyn Navy Yard to the city of New York as the first in a series of such disposals of excess government facilities. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, left, and New York Mayor John Lindsay made joint announcement outside White House Friday after a meeting in which they agreed on transfer of the 265-acre facility.

Transplant patient 'critical'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 47-year-old man, the heart of a 13-year-old girl beating in his chest, was in "extremely critical" condition Friday after undergoing transplant surgery. Harold D. Sonders, assistant executive director of Allegheny General Hospital, issued the grave report on William Wolfgram at a morning news conference.

Wolfgram became Pittsburgh's second heart transplant patient during a 5½-hour operation by a team of 10 doctors and 16 nurses Thursday night.

Surgeons sewed into his chest the heart of Sandra Patterson, 13, of nearby Millvale, who had died an hour before of injuries suffered Wednesday when hit by a car.

The hospital said Wolfgram, a retired postal worker from Pittsburgh's Shadyside section, had a heart condition that couldn't be corrected with conventional heart surgery.

The hospital said he had had heart trouble since 1962.

The Patterson girl, an eighth grade pupil at St. Anthony's Catholic School, was struck by a car while returning home from an afternoon of sewing and swimming classes.

She died late Thursday afternoon, and the transplant operation began only one hour and five minutes later.

Transit workers ratify contract

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Members of Local 234, Transport Workers Union have ratified a new 26-month contract agreed to after a five and a half hour strike last Jan. 15.

The contract, for 5,000 operating and maintenance employees on Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority's buses, subways and trolleys provides a 55-cent-an-hour pay increase, plus another 10 to 13 cents in fringe benefits.

conferences with his advisors on economic affairs and science and technology. He had a reunion with three Republican congressmen and a former one who belong to a social club—the Chowder and Marching Society—of which Nixon is a charter member.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked what Nixon is going to do in disclosing his policy on Vietnam and other urgent issues—and whether he will speak through a statement, message or news conference.

Ziegler noted that the President is only four days into his administration and added:

"Certainly as time goes on he will be expressing his views on many things."

The President was at his desk at 7:45 Friday morning, Ziegler said, and worked there until it was time to shift to the White House East Room for the 10 o'clock swearing-in of Walter J. Nickel as secretary of the interior.

The other 11 Cabinet members took their oaths of office Wednesday after being approved unanimously by the Senate. Nickel was confirmed Thursday with 16 Democrats questioning his outlook on conservation and voting "no."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was operating in his new office in the southwest corner of the White House—opposite the presidential office in the southeast corner.

Agnew and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York joined in announcing that New York City is going to get the defunct Brooklyn Navy Yard free, for conversion by private industry into a project designed to produce up to 20,000 jobs in an area

Judge nixes Bevel bid

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle told the Rev. James Bevel Friday he may not help defend James Earl Ray against a murder charge in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King. This, the judge said, is because Bevel is not a lawyer.

Bevel, formerly associated with King, says he has evidence which would acquit Ray. He and lawyer Percy Foreman, Ray's chief defense attorney, conferred with the judge.

Bevel declined to disclose the nature of the evidence which he said would free Ray. Ray's trial is scheduled to start March 3.

Experts gingerly pick grenades from wreck

GRANTHAM, Pa. (AP) — Army ordnance experts carefully retrieved Friday the "Class A" explosives strewn about the wreckage of 14 heading Railroad cars.

Four of the cars contained grenades and mortar shells and other explosives. Experts were brought to the scene from Lettensville Depot in Chambersburg, Indianopolis Gap, and Port Meade, Md.

A trailer camp on the nearby Messiah College campus was evacuated of its 50 student residents and some homes were verging on ghetto conditions now.

Ziegler told reporters Nixon "fully shares the deep humanitarian concerns" voiced in a resolution signed Wednesday by 52 of the hundred senators calling on the chief executive to supply more food, funds, transport planes and ground vehicles to combat starvation while Nigeria and secessionist Biafra fight on.

Tutoring project succeeding

HANOVER, Pa. (AP) — Students are teaching students in a National Honor Society project at Hanover High School.

The innovation in the school's curriculum began in November with an idea conceived by local members of the National Honor Society (NHS) and endorsed by the faculty.

Twelve senior members of the NHS were selected to teach students who are experiencing difficulties in certain subject areas. Principal Joseph E. Wierman said in explaining the program.

Currently, 47 students from the four high school grades are receiving instruction through the tutorial project.

Subjects include chemistry, algebra-trigonometry, geometry, American history, and English.

The project has proved successful thus far, Wierman said. He added that students with learning difficulties acquire a "sense of relaxation" when they are taught by others in their own age group and when they realize they are not being evaluated or graded directly.

The students have shown a greater general response and a "marked interest" in their more difficult subjects, Wierman said.

Students sometimes feel disturbed and awkward in asking a teacher questions about a subject which, deep inside, they feel they should know, he noted.

A student at times suffers through bad grades because he will not resort to asking questions of a teacher, Wierman explained. He said the project has proven that students can communicate more easily with others of the same age group.

The project has been hailed as "very successful" and faculty members plan to continue the program the remainder of the current school year.

vacated at the height of the emergency Thursday night.

The wreck occurred in this small Cumberland County community at 4:23 p. m. Thursday. There were no reports of injuries.

The train consisted of 72 loaded cars and 30 empties drawn by three locomotives. It was en route from Cumberland, Md. to the Rutherford Yards in Swatara Township.

Officials said it would be three or four days before normal operations can be restored on the line.

50,000 deer face death in Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — As many as 50,000 deer could starve to death in Michigan this winter unless a "miracle" thaw melts heavy snows before spring, says Ralph A. MacMullan, Michigan's director of natural resources.

Emergency plans are being formulated to feed deer huddled into clearings deep in the north woods. If necessary, MacMullan said, the department will mobilize civilian snowmobile task forces to transport food, and air drops are being considered. Michigan's deer herd is estimated at 500,000 head; a 10 per cent loss would be a major disaster to conservationists and hunters alike.

"This is a real emergency—a once in 20 years or a once in 50 years kind of winter," MacMullan said Thursday. "Barring a weather miracle, deer in the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula are going to be in serious trouble before spring."

Biologists report some deer already dead of starvation.

"Customarily—even in the worst winters—heavy starvation starts in the late winter," MacMullan said. "We can lose 50,000 if we have a helluva bad winter."

The crisis is expected later in the winter.

Deer won't move out of their winter retreats to search for food, the director said.

Peace negotiators prepared for siege

Four-sided talks start today

PARIS (AP) — The United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong National Liberation Front begin Saturday their four-way exploration of the road to peace. None of the four has any illusions about the formidable obstacles ahead.

There were expressions of optimism but these were carefully guarded and qualified, and all four principals obviously were prepared for a siege which could last for months.

On the eve of the historic first session on matters of substance, expressions of hope in some cases were tinged with misgivings.

At 10:30 a.m.—4:30 a.m. EST—the talks will get under way, probably with long, wide-ranging policy statements from each of the four participants.

Each side has taken elaborate precautions to portray the conference in its own way: The NLF and Hanoi as a four-sided meeting suggesting equality for the front, the Americans and the South Vietnamese as a two-sided affair, suggesting that the front is simply the creature of Hanoi.

At the International Conference Center, an ornate old building, which once was the Hotel Majestic, the four parties will enter the conference hall through two separate doors—the Americans and South Vietnamese through one and the NLF and North Vietnamese through another.

The 15 American and 15 South Vietnamese delegates will seat themselves on the far side of an enormous round table. The front and the North Vietnamese, each also with 15 delegates, will arrange themselves on the opposite side.

Heading the U.S. delegation will be Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, representing President Nixon. His principal aides will be Ambassadors Cyrus R. Vance, held over temporarily from President Lyndon B. Johnson's team, Lawrence E. Walsh and Marshall Green.

For the South Vietnamese, the delegation will be headed by Ambassador Pham Dang Lam and Nguyen Xuan Phong, his No. 2 man. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, who arrived Friday, is general overseer of the delegation but will not sit in on the meeting.

From North Vietnam, the team is led by Ambassador Xuan Thuy, who opposed Ambassador W. Averell Harriman throughout the preliminary two-way talks which began last May. Assisting him will be Ambassador Ha Van Lau and Le Duc Tho, a member of the North Vietnamese ruling Politburo.

For the Liberation Front, the team chief will be Tran Huu Kiem, foreign affairs specialist for the Viet Cong's political arm, assisted by the diminutive

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh.

The official language to be used will be English and Vietnamese.

There will, by common consent, be no fixed agenda. The meeting will be wide open, with any side entitled to bring up any subject it chooses for discussion.

The U.S. Command said the evacuation helicopter, plainly marked with red crosses, was hit while leaving a battle zone. The crew included two pilots and two medics.

The helicopter that crashed last week was an Army craft being used as a command ship by Col. Michael M. Spark, 41, commander of the 3rd Marine Regiment, 3rd Marine Division. Spark, a New York City native whose family lives in Alexandria, Va., was killed in the crash along with Lt. Col. Ernie Lee Whisman, 40, Wichita Falls, Tex., and Sgt. Maj. Ted McClintock, 39, Bothwell, Wash. The names of the others, a radio man and four crewmen were not announced.

Marine spokesmen said Spark was airborne to "observe what was going on" in a battle involving his unit in jungle country. The helicopter was hit by small-arms fire.

The 15 deaths in the two crashes brought to an unofficial total of 1,288 the number of persons killed in combat crashes of helicopters in the war. At least 993 have died in mishaps not as a result of enemy action.

Court sessions

MILFORD — Pike County continues to await action in the Ziepe case with the accused youth from Port Jervis still confined to an Orange County prison.

Looking ahead at the Pike County court schedule, if delays are not too pronounced, such as a lengthy extradition battle, the case could go before a Grand Jury on Feb. 27. All divisions of the Pike County court will be in session on March 17 and, if an indictment was upheld by the Grand Jury, the case could be tried at that time.

However it is to be expected that March 17 would be too soon to enable the attorneys involved to prepare their cases so it is doubtful that the Port Jervis high school student involved will have his day in court until May 12 when the Pike County Branch of the 43rd Judicial District will again be in full session.

THE JANUARY thaw arrived and suddenly one is aware that the middle month of winter is fast slipping away. There is, at this writing, very little snow in the Milford area, but ice clings to the surface of the earth with tenacious persistence even after several days of thaw.

However, we learned out lesson in the long ago about making comments about the mildness of the winter weather and the advent of spring. One year, when the area was enjoying some particularly fine weather in the waning days of the winter season, the late Joe

HAROLD KARP of New York City, who has long been active in public relations and promotional work, is currently touring the Pike County area, contacting business establishments in regard to the new brochure and guide to be published by the Pike County Chamber of Commerce.

Arthur Ogden, Chairman of the Chamber's Tourism and Recreation Committee, has been accompanying Karp on his rounds. The new publication will contain a detailed map of the county, a listing of public and emergency services and historical information.

The Chamber directors, who will be meeting at the Court House Annex on Monday evening, hope to have the new publication available for distribution by mid-spring.

Depot urges cooperation in search for area housing

TOBYHANNA — The Tobyhanna Army Depot command Friday afternoon urged area realtors and chambers of commerce officials to cooperate in a search to provide housing for depot employees.

Nearly 20 real estate officials and representatives from chambers of commerce from Monroe, Lackawanna and Luzerne Counties attended the one-hour session at the depot.

Command officials briefed the businessmen on the depot's new Housing Referral Service.

Maj. Marcellas Durham and Lt. William Britton outlined the purpose, scope, responsibilities and procedures and standards of conduct for the Housing Referral Service which was initiated last fall.

Basically, the businessmen were told, the depot seeks the cooperation of real estate agents in maintaining an up-to-date list of available housing.

The Referral Service, with the aid of an up-to-date list would then seek housing for the depot's military and civilian employees.

The depot officials were told, however, that housing throughout the area is at a premium and currently the demand far exceeds the supply.

Rentals, it was explained, are currently high and range from over $100 per month for one-bedroom apartments. Two bedroom apartments are renting for about $150.

A Wilkes-Barre man said housing in that city is critical. He explained that the city's B'nai B'rith has sponsored a non-profit housing complex for which construction should begin in a few months.

Currently, the majority of the depot's 4,000 employees reside in the Tobyhanna area. Scranton has the second highest depot employees. Other employees also reside in Mt. Pocono, Wilkes-Barre, Stroudsburg and the Werry Housing Project outside the depot.

Raymond Roberts of Country Cousins Realty said that the immediate solution would be to construct investor houses.

The realtors also learned that a problem exists with the turnover of employees at the depot. Col. Paul R. Poulin, depot commander, said there is an especially difficult task to find housing for men who have a two year tour of duty at the depot.

Alton Jones, former relocation director for the Monroe County Redevelopment Authority, emphasized the acute overall housing shortage in the area.

Rent homes
The realtors said many homes listed on the open market for sale are not available for rent. They explained numerous attempts to rent the homes have been made, but owners would rather sell their homes.

Maj. Durham said the depot has investigated the possibility of buying homes and leasing structures to supply housing for employees. The problem, Maj. Durham, explained, is that federal requirements would not permit this without the government first purchasing the Werry Housing Project.

Purchase of the Werry House project, Maj. Durham said, "is not a desirable course of action."

Foster Blair, executive secretary of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, suggested that rental of homes in the vacation home developments be investigated.

The key to the new Housing Referral Service, however, is cooperation and the depot command urged the realtors to make lists of available housing available to the depot.

Pleasant Valley seniors

Students offered college aid

LANCASTER — Seniors at Pleasant Valley Junior-Senior High School who have achieved strong academic records will be eligible for consideration in the 1968-69 Commonwealth Scholarship Program of Franklin and Marshall College.

President Spalding, in announcing that this special scholarship program will be offered for the fifth consecutive year, said that the principal of Pleasant Valley Junior-Senior High School was among administrators at some 125 small high schools throughout Pennsylvania invited to recommend candidates for the scholarship program.

The program, tailored specifically for students from schools serving small Pennsylvania communities, may be open for the first time this year to both men and women students, President Spalding said.

Liberal arts college
Franklin and Marshall, until now an all-male liberal arts college, has announced that it is strongly considering a plan to become a co-educational institution by admitting women students, beginning next September. It is expected the College's Board of Trustees will decide in January whether to enact a co-educational program.

"Since Franklin and Marshall established the Commonwealth Scholarship Program five years ago, the College has awarded scholarships to 32 outstanding students from small schools throughout Pennsylvania,"

President Spalding reported. "We would be delighted to present that many or more this year alone."

Franklin and Marshall's Director of Admissions Ronald D. Potier, commenting on the reason for the scholarship program, said, "We have invited Pleasant Valley Junior-Senior High School students to participate in our program again this year because, though it is generally said that the most successful college graduates come from large urban secondary schools, we find that just the opposite frequently is true."

"A great many of our outstanding scholars have come to us from high schools in smaller Pennsylvania communities. Their contributions to the College, both academically and in extra-curricular activities, have made them among our best all-around students."

Potier said the Commonwealth Scholarship will be awarded on the basis of financial need, academic ability, extra-curricular interests and recommendations of secondary school officials.

Unique firefighting problem

Dedicated men protect Promised Land

By PEGGY BANCROFT
Record Correspondent
NEWFOUNDLAND — It made a pretty lumpy Christmas stocking, but the Promised Land Fire Company found a brand new fire truck — their first new piece of equipment — in theirs!

The new pumper, designed with positive traction rear, power steering, a 550-gallon front-mounted pump, is one of two recently-acquired pieces of equipment for the company, which purchased the Cadillac ambulance the Tafton Fire Company replaced last year with a new one.

It was nearly 15 years ago that the problem of the unprotected lands of Greene Township in the Promised Land area was solved by the moving of a pumper out of Newfoundland, even though there was no place to house the truck.

Today, the four-bay fire house at Promised Land is filled with three trucks and the ambulance.

Dedicated work
The story of the Promised Land Fire Company is one of dedicated work by a few men, because Promised Land has a strange problem: too many people in the Summer and too few in the Winter.

It was in September, 1954, that the Greene-Dreher Volunteer Fire Association, through the cooperation of the Civil Defense organization, purchased a new piece of apparatus, a GMC closed cab truck valued at close to $10,000.

The acquisition of the new equipment released a trailer-mounted 500-gallon per minute pumper to the Promised Land area, long without adequate fire protection. The Department of Forests and Waters planned to house and man the new piece of equipment in the community of Promised Land, which is surrounded by state lands and lakes.

So the village to the northeast of Newfoundland had a bright and shiny truck, but no fire company. The week after its transfer, the truck was discussed at a meeting of the Promised Land Civic Association, gathered for a roast beef dinner and some meaty problems. The Promised Land Sportman's Club stepped up to donate $40 for the purpose of housing the equipment, and someone suggested that Promised Land now needed a Fire Company.

New company
It was decided that it would be called Fire Company Number Two, a subsidiary branch of the Greene-Dreher Fire Company. Meeting in October, 1954, the Civic Association voted to act as the sponsoring organization for the proposed company, and the name was changed to The Promised Land Volunteer Fire Department, Division of the Greene-Dreher Volunteer Fire Association.

The new company was planned to operate under the charter of the Newfoundland group. Financing was available under the existing one and one-half mill Greene Township levy on all property between the Roemerville corner and the Palmyra Township line, and real estate located on the shores of Promised Land.

Appointed to serve as the committee to handle the actual organization of the company were Levi Blank, chairman; Roy Kistler, Alvin Luckey, George Rehig, Calvin Rose and Lester Meyers.

The "new" pumper from Newfoundland company was housed at the Wilson Inn on Route 390. Plans for the acquisition of land the eventual erection of a fire house were discussed.

The first president of the company was Calvin Rose, who has served practically all of the intervening years as fire chief. Richard Weiland was vice president; Albert Haldiman was secretary; and John Price was treasurer, the latter serving in that office ever since the early years. All four have remained in active service to the company.

Unique territory
The Promised Land Fire Company is unique in that its own territory contains no multi-story buildings excepting the landmark, The Wilson Inn, and a few two-story homes. Most of its work is in field, brush and woodland fires, with the huge Promised Land State Park, heavily-forested, within its region.

The only "big" fire totally within the Promised Land Company's area was the Promised Land Inn, which burned to the ground one windy, eight-below-zero night. The company was also called in to assist in the Newfoundland Hotel and Haubert Theatre fires in Newfoundland and the blaze which demolished Gumble Brothers business location on Lake Wallenpaupack.

But the picture is changing in the Poconos, with the advent of Route 81 which bisects the Promised Land Park area, entering Bruce Lake wilderness area to the north of the parklands. The population is increasing; building developments are expanding; and still the problem of too little help in the wintertime remains.

The Promised Land Fire Company has come a long way since that day back in 1954 when it was a wing of the Newfoundland group. It is a company that stands alone and does a good job with only a small working force, although the two companies have an excellent assistance program, as do all of the fire companies in the Pocono Mountains where distance is such a big factor in fighting a fire.

And the Promised Land firemen agree that it is surprising that there aren't more fires in their area, what with thousands upon thousands of vacationers coming into the region for picnics, building fires and tossing out cigarettes and generally asking for trouble.

Actually, the firemen point out, the public is so well-informed and careful about woodland fires there are few real problems. After all, everybody knows about Smokey, the Bear.

Rank may play role in hearings

Commander Lloyd M. Bucher, skipper of the ill-fated Pueblo, has been informed that he may have violated regulations by surrendering his intelligence ship to the North Koreans.

This bit of heartbreaking information was presented to the 41-year-old Naval officer during a hearing now being held concerning the capture of the intelligence ship.

Bucher during the first day of testimony revealed that he had requested bigger and better guns for the Pueblo and a destruction system that would make it impossible for enemies to gain control of secret information and equipment aboard.

Testimony revealed that requests for such additions to the ship may have gone as high as the Pentagon.

However, this information seems to have been quickly forgotten in the face of the warning issued by the board directing the hearing.

As of this early date in the hearing, the entire responsibility for the capture apparently rests on the shoulders of Bucher, even though his requests for material aid were turned down by higher ranking Naval officers.

His tearful description of threats to his life and to the lives of his crew and the manner in which he decided to make a false confession in order to save 82 lives, brought only a reminder that he may have violated regulations by surrendering his ship.

True, the commander of a ship is in complete charge and responsible for whatever may happen to the craft and its crew. However, repeated refusals by higher ranking officers to improve the fighting and secret aspects of the Pueblo should be taken into consideration.

The fact that Bucher undoubtedly saved 82 American lives by his courageous action should also be a major factor in clearing the officer of any wrong doing, while those who may be even more responsible for Pueblo's capture go unreprimated.

Care key to issue

Misdirection of funds from the state to municipality, as shown in a recent check on fire insurance payments, is another one of those communication breakdowns that are brought about in all innocence.

In fact, it is residents of the very areas that actually feel the loss of funds who are often guilty of the reduction in income.

All out-of-state insurance companies doing business in Pennsylvania pay the state two per cent of all premiums collected. The Commonwealth in turn distributes the money to fire companies across the state.

On the surface the plan is good. However, it was found by The Pocono Record during a check with state and local fire officials that the funds are sometimes inadvertently channeled to the wrong location.

Residents of Stroud Twp. are a prime example. Many have Stroudsburg addresses and in making application for fire insurance, fail to mention that they are actually residents of Stroud Twp.

Thus, instead of Stroud Township's share of the fire funds going to the rightful company, it is actually sent to Stroudsburg—and actually through nobody's negligence.

This is only one of many cases in dealing with federal and state governments where an incorrect or doubtful address can cause trouble for the individual and municipality alike.

Relief associations of fire companies across the state have been working toward the granting of policing powers to the state in an effort to have each fire insurance agency correct this problem.

Care in presenting the correct address at first contact between resident and insurance official is the key step in seeing that the funds are placed in the right channel.

Coin Corner

Good old silvertime

By ROBERT SVENSSON

The transition of United States coins from silver to "clad sandwiches" is now just about complete. Occasionally a silver coin will show up in pocket change, but very rarely.

The general public is, perhaps, almost totally unaware of the change by now. The average man couldn't care less. After all, the present copper-core quarters and dimes can be spent just as fast as the old silver coins. And who cares if there are no half dollars around? Or any silver coins?

About one million coin collectors care.

You can be sure that these folks pore over their change every night looking for a silver piece. But, soon they will stop looking.

Some people sincerely believe that the change from silver coins to our present variety was an emergency matter. And, when the emergency has passed, silver will return to our pockets.

Forget it!

Guarding future

WASHINGTON — How do we prevent another Vietnam in Vietnam?

After 20 years of war and all its destruction, can the shattered economy of South Vietnam be put back together again even after peace comes?

The answers are not all negative. Some things in the right direction are already being done.

For two years David E. Lilienthal, former administrator of the Tennessee Valley Authority and first chairman of the United States Energy Commission, and Vu Quoc Thuc, a distinguished South Vietnamese economist, have been working on both these questions. They have reached two conclusions:

That the answer to the second question can remove much of the danger of the first, that South Vietnam's early rebuilding of its economy will be the best protection against future war.

That by planning and acting now — even while the Paris peace talks are in progress — South Vietnam, by its own efforts and with outside help, can achieve a sustained gross equal to Thailand of about six per cent annually.

Design for future
Prof. Thuc and Lilienthal, who is president of a U.S. consultant company, Development and Resources Corp., know what they are talking about. They are co-chairman of the Joint Development Group in South Vietnam, which has been working out a design and a strategy to take South Vietnam from a wartime to a peacetime footing and to develop its resources for the future.

They believe it can be done. Early next month they will put into the hands of President Thieu and President Nixon a comprehensive report and work program which will outline 35 projects to be undertaken this year and next, dealing with nearly every aspect of civil development and how to turn prospects into reality.

The work of the Joint Development Group has been financed by the governments of South Vietnam and the United States. There are now 55 resident Vietnamese in the group, plus a resident American staff of six which is occasionally supplemented by up to six additional senior experts from Lilienthal's U.S. headquarters. The group includes economists, engineers, managers and specialists in agriculture, industry, finance, transportation, forestry.

Prof. Thuc has recently become minister of state in the Thieu cabinet, but most of the Vietnamese planners hold no government posts.

"But there is one thing the Joint Development Group is not," Lilienthal points out in Foreign Affairs magazine. "It is not a group with a Vietnamese facade and the American members doing the actual work, but a full partnership in every sense of the word."

Advanced stage
The planning is now in an advanced stage in both the public and private sectors of the economy, including highways, public utilities, education, public health and medical services. It is not a grandiose plan for the future, but a practical plan for immediate action.

Will it work? Has the nation's economy been so crippled and neglected that solid restoration is impossible? Lilienthal's answers are these:

Despite the war, physical destruction has been minimal, and the economic wealth in the country in physical facilities has increased.

Its system of modern ports will require no major restoration.

Its agriculture is diversifying, is benefiting from new types of rice and can absorb other technological improvement.

The industrial structure has suffered little, and the labor force has acquired useful skills.

Despite serious problems of refugees, overdependence on U.S. aid and economic distortions, "economically the country is fortunate."

The outlook for South Vietnam's recovery is far better than many have thought, and every nation which wants peace, not war, ought to be eager to help. The need is to begin now.

Don MacLean

Not too bad

If you didn't hear it, this is what he said:

"We got Anders, a good Roman Catholic, to read the first four verses of the King James version of the Bible," Borman said. Then, glancing down at the Supreme Court justices sitting in the first row and, in an obvious dig at their decision to bar prayers in the classrooms, Borman added, "But now that I see the gentlemen here in the front row, I'm not sure we should have read the Bible at all."

Rep. Richard L. Roudebush (R., Ind.) has introduced a bill which would prevent the Office of Economic Opportunity from competing with private business by setting up stores and so forth.

Actually, I think Roudebush's fear is groundless. Judged on past performance, I think there's little chance of OEO doing anything efficiently enough to compete with anyone.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton (D., N.Y.) has this retort to all those who criticize Congress as being too slow-moving, out of step with the times or what-have-you:

"When I first came to Congress in 1941, the critics were writing off Congress as a dead donkey. Congress has lost the initiative, we were told, and was simply reacting to Franklin D. Roosevelt's proposals instead of governing the country itself. This was the end of representative government, the critics said. But they were wrong and the country survived."

During the first week Congress was in session, 2,738 bills were introduced in the House. And I'll bet at least two or three of them are important!

Allen-Goldsmith Report

No pride in Pride

John A. Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — There is a good chance Labor Secretary George Shultz' first thorny problem will be an irate congressional demand for the cancellation of the $3.8 million contract his Democratic predecessor dished out to Pride, Inc., last September — as the presidential campaign was swinging into high gear.

Influential House members are heatedly charging this widely publicized ghetto youth project is riddled with corruption, payroll padding, kickbacks and other scandals.

Squarely in the middle of this explosive storm is the General Accounting Office — supervisory and investigative agency of Congress. On express orders of the Senate Appropriations Committee, aroused over numerous charges of Pride booting and grafting, GAO was directed to examine and report on the management of the project.

GAO's findings are a graphic example of bureaucratic muzzymouth and temporizing.

Weaknesses admitted
On one hand, GAO admitted that "the serious weakness in Pride's system of accounting and internal controls allowed for conditions under which many of the irregularities and improprieties that have been alleged could have occurred. . . . (Also) we cannot conclude that all funds advanced to Pride under its first two contracts with the Labor Department were properly expended and accounted for."

Having thus delivered itself of this gobbledygook condemnation, GAO then went on to bestow its blessing on the culprit, as follows:

"We do not believe that it is feasible to determine now with any degree of certainty the full extent to which funds may have been misused. We believe that the passage of time and other circumstances relating to Pride operations would make any attempt at such determination inordinately costly and the results would probably be inconclusive."

On the basis of this GAO pussyfooting, former Labor Secretary Wirtz gave Pride a new $3.8 million contract — just as the election battle was heating up.

This bountiful handout made a total of $6.1 million laddled out to Pride since it was hastily launched in the summer of 1967 to provide employment for hundreds of Negro youths in Washington's ghettos — at a time when tensions were high and the capital appeared on the verge of racial turmoil and violence.

GAO's remarkable findings have drawn scathing congressional fire.

Illustrative is the blast by Rep. Joel Broyhill, R-N.Y., member of the District of Columbia Committee, detailing a new list of Pride scandals and misdeeds. They range from bald graft and booting to arming for clashes with the police.

Foremost among the accusations made by Broyhill in a letter to Elmer Staats, head of GAO, are:

"During the pay period December 20, 1968-January 3, 1969, Pride officials granted a general holiday to all members of the staff and all enrollees. Prior to December 20, 1968, time and attendance reports for the pay period were contracted in advance and all employees and enrollees subsequently were paid in full, even though they were not on-board during this period. It is estimated that the gross payroll for Pride during this period was approximately $65,000.

"During November 1968, approximately $504 of Pride funds were spent to purchase gas masks, to be used presumably should confrontations with the Metropolitan Police Department take place.

"Records of Pride, Inc., indicate that salary advances to employees are made on a regular basis. Amounts up to $8,000 have been advanced, including substantial advances to top officials of Pride.

"Payroll irregularities and errors have persisted during the administration of the third contract ($3.8 million).

"Excessive expenditures have occurred for rented autos which have been used for personal business. During the Christmas holidays, one official purchased a tank of gas daily for a rented car which was paid for by Pride.

"Pride's director of administration resigned last month because the board of directors and top administrators refused to comply with Labor Department and General Accounting Office instructions concerning adequate record keeping procedures.

"Despite the requirements that Pride institute and install adequate bookkeeping procedures, there has been no general ledger recording the fiscal activities of the organization established to date.

"The journal account for the third contract has not been reconciled. Similarly, the petty cash account under the third contract has not been reconciled."

MORE PROBES — Significantly reinforcing Representative Broyhill's caustic fusillade are two new investigations of Pride — one by the Senate Rackets Committee, headed by Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark.; the other by the Federal Bureau of Investigation at the direction of former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark shortly before he departed.

Both probes were initiated as the result of continuing reports of rampant Pride scandals and illegalities. The FBI investigation could lead to grand jury proceedings and prosecutive misdeeds.

Letters to the Editor

Lack of cooperation

Rep. Fred B. Rooney:

I noted the following headlines as published in The Pocono Record, January 3, 1969: Rooney to press for Tocks constructing during 1970."

As a Representative for Pennsylvania in the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C., I am submitting a few items below, which will, no doubt, be of great interest to you.

1. I have been a resident of Shawnee in the Delaware Valley for the past 19 years. Our family has enjoyed the natural beauty of this scenic region, as well as the peace and tranquility it has afforded each of us.

2. Despite selfish interests to remain here as has always been our dream, I did not stand in the way of "progress." I have cooperated fully with the past 11 years, when we were first advised of the proposed site of the Tocks Island Dam being located here. I allowed them to make whatever test boring were necessary on our land, and in addition, gave them permission to evaluate our home and land for acquisition purposes in January of 1968. (Cooperation).

3. I have been advised that due to the length of time which has elapsed since the appraisal of January, 1968, a new appraisal must now be made. This is scheduled for the Spring of 1969. (More Taxpayers' Dollars!!!!)

4. In the meantime, our home is being severely affected from blasting operations which have been in progress on the Jersey side, opposite our home. Heavy damages are mounting daily, and to make matters more intolerable, we were advised by the local E. Stroudsburg office that depreciation such as this will seriously affect final sales price (at a loss to us).

5. I notified the Army Corps of Engineers, Philadelphia, as well as the Doral Construction Co., who I understand is in charge of the blasting operations. Communications were started as early as November 25, and to date, I have not seen or heard from any qualified person who can settle the damages in question. (Cooperation?????)

6. For the past 19 years, I have put in the best years of my life to maintain and improve our home, of which I am very proud. As a citizen and taxpayer, what protection am I afforded for damages inflicted upon my property by someone else? Our Declaration of Independence includes for its citizens Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. Where is ours?????

May I have your comments and suggestions to resolve this issue? Thank you.

SALVATORE F. PAPPALARDO

Surgery for lop ears

Plastic surgery for the repair of large, protruding ears is very gratifying to patients who submit to this operation. Sometimes parents are reluctant to have this kind of surgery performed on their children, passing it off with the loving phrase "you're pretty enough as is."

It is difficult for parents to appreciate the embarrassment of boys and girls who feel that their ears stick out too far, especially when they are teased by their friends because of their "elephant ears." Boys are particularly sensitive because they cannot hide their ears as readily as girls can with their hair. I forgot for a moment that this is not so in this day and age of long-haired boys.

Lop ears are frequently noticed early in infancy and some parents try to fasten the ears back with tape only to find that this is impossible. The cartilage of the ear is resilient and bounces back immediately.

Plastic surgery of the ears is a safe procedure and can be done in most cases under local anesthesia. It is astonishing to witness the remarkable personality changes that occur in children who develop added security when they are free of the stigma of outstanding ears.

Excessive menstrual bleeding is not normal and should most certainly be studied for the exact cause. Too often, the unpleasant experience of bleeding is quickly forgotten until the next menstrual period comes on. It is wise to report unusual bleeding to the doctor and then to be sure that an examination takes place after the bleeding has subsided.

The cause may be a simple one and easily controlled with drugs and hormones. If infection is present, or if there is a fibroid tumor of the uterus to account for bleeding, they can be cured by medical treatment or surgery.

Painful menstruation or dysmenorrhea — or irregular menstruation — deserve complete pelvic examination. The newer knowledge of the balance between the hormone or endocrine-producing glands can, in most instances, remedy many of these distressing conditions.

Patients frequently ask their doctor the significance of the numbers that represent their blood pressure. I cannot understand why this is kept such a state secret, or why the patients cannot be told the number of variations of their blood pressure. I find that most patients are adult enough to understand what high and low blood pressure means, the causes of them and their control.

There are a number of varieties of high blood pressure. The usual ones can now be kept under control with new drugs that have been developed in the past ten years. By keeping the blood pressure within normal limits, the doctor can prevent some of the complications that can occur if high blood pressure is neglected.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Well, I learn something everyday. First it was that peanut butter can kill birds and now that corn can kill deer. That bit of information was contributed by Jake Kintz at the DAR meeting this week.

Together with another thing I didn't know about the trail markers which Indians had made by bending young trees some 250 years ago which still are leaning up Beaver Run

Miss Pamela J. Prell

Miss Prell to be bride in autumn

CANADENSIS — Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Prell of Dutch Hill Road, Canadensis, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Pamela J. Prell of 944 High St., Alpha, N.J., to Julius Samoygi.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Samoygi of 325 Park Ave., Delaware Park, Phillipsburg, N.J.

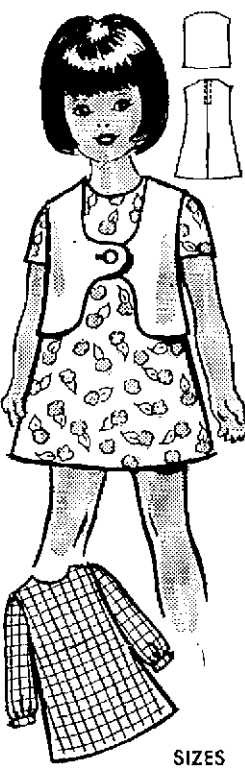

The bride is a graduate of Pocono Mountain High School, Swiftwater and the Eastern Hospital School of Nursing. She is employed in the emergency ward at the Eastern Hospital.

Party round for Hocking anniversary

BETHLEHEM — Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Hocking of Bethlehem were honored at a round of parties on their 40th wedding anniversary.

A dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cramer and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Marvin of Stroudsburg started off the round of celebrations. They were honored by the Sunday School Council of the Calvary Church of the Nazarene in Bangor where Rev. Hocking is supply pastor.

A party was held at the home of Mrs. Hocking's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Hughes and daughter, Louise of Bangor. Other guests were Mrs. Charles Buzzard, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hicks of Bangor; Mrs. Hocking's sister, Mrs. Fred Gardner of Main St., Portland.

Mrs. Hocking is a former resident of Portland. They were married January 19, 1929 at Bangor by Rev. James Tonkin, pastor of Salem Evangelical Church. Rev. Hocking, now partially retired, is a member of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey District of the Wesleyan Church.

Women's Bag Sale in February

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Women's Exchange of the General Hospital Aux. has scheduled a "bag sale" for Feb. 3 through 7.

Those attending the sale may fill a grocery bag with all sorts of useful items, including clothing, for only 75 cents a bag. Winter items will continue on sale through February.

The exchange is across the street from the General Hospital of Monroe County. Everyone is invited to the sale and support the hospital at the same time.

Pocono trees, Indian markers, conservation stressed by Kintz

STROUDSBURG — Tree farms, harvesting forests, an Indian marker pointing to a rattlesnake den, and why corn is deadly for deer were among the points brought out by Jacob Kintz of the Pennsylvania Department of Forest and Waters at the meeting of the Jacob Stroud Chapter, Daughters of the Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at the Stroud Community House.

The dominate species of trees in Monroe County are white pine, hemlock and oak. In Pike County dominant trees are birch, beech, mixed oak and maple. There are also some black cherry trees although they are not numerous, he reported.

Kintz described the process of growing white pine in the four nurseries growing stock in Pennsylvania. Cones from mature trees are gathered, placed in bins, and rotated in cylinders to remove the seeds. The seeds fall on strips of canvas.

Some seeds are planted in rows of 75 to 80 seeds. In another method seeds are sited on prepared beds of mulch, sand and loam and rolled.

When a healthy pine tree is found with many cones, a sharp shooter is used to shoot off sizes for grafting on root stock to hasten production.

Growing seedlings are lifted out and placed in lots of 1,000, which is the minimum which may be ordered from the state. The charge is $6 a thousand plus a dollar service charge, he said. From 14 to 16 million seedlings are sold annually.

Kintz described both hand and machine planting of the seedlings. When planting by hand, the seedlings should be kept in soil and water in a bucket to keep them from drying out. A mallet should be used to make holes in the ground, and a mallet to tamp the ground down around the plant. Rows should be eight feet wide, and each seedling planted eight feet apart to allow for growth.

While one man can plant 500 seedlings in an eight-hour day, three men with a planting machine pulled by a tractor can plant 8 to 10 thousand seedlings per day.

Many local slopes have been planted after having been farmed for years, he reported, and have become shelter areas for ringtail pheasant, cotton tails and wild turkey. However it takes 70 years from planting to harvest, he reported.

In the state forests, he said, one of the duties of the forester is thinning out trees. Yellow paint is used to mark trees for cutting. Boy Scouts often help to fell trees by axe, he said.

Felled trees continue to grow for several years, making browse for deer, Kintz said.

Family Fare

Apricot orange cobbler, luscious fruit flavors underneath a cake-like topping.

Cobbler: family dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Cobblers are just as American as apple pie, and justly popular with families. They're flavorful, hearty and satisfying.

But even though cobblers have been made for years, every once in a while an enterprising cook makes it with a new fruit combination. That's just what we have for you today. This cobbler boasts canned apricot halves and fresh orange sections for its fruit base, then a cakelike layer for its topping.

Apricot Orange Cobbler

3/4 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 can (1 pound, 14 ounces)

apricot halves
3/4 cup orange sections (2 oranges)
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 egg
3/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
One-third cup milk

On wax paper sift together flour, baking powder and salt; set aside.

Drain apricot halves, reserving syrup — about 1 1/2 cups. Place apricot halves and orange sections in bottom of baking dish (8 by 8 by 2 inches); sprinkle with orange rind.

In medium saucepan mix 1/4 cup of the sugar and the corn starch. Stir in reserved apricot syrup. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to boil and boils one minute. Pour cornstarch mixture over fruit. Put in preheated 375 degree oven to heat, about five minutes.

Meanwhile, beat together egg, three tablespoons of the remaining sugar, the butter and the milk. Stir in sifted dry ingredients.

Spread batter smoothly on top of hot fruit. Sprinkle with remaining one tablespoon sugar. Bake 30 minutes or until topping is crisp and golden brown. Serve hot or warm. Makes five to six servings.

Medical Aux. meets Tuesday

STROUDSBURG — Members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society are asked to bring drug samples, packets and ready for mailing to their meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 8, to the home of Mrs. Harvey T. Pullen, 211 North Sixth St., Stroudsburg.

The samples are sent for the use of doctors in poverty stricken areas.

Services cheap, goods expensive in France, Americans find (Fifth in a series of articles by Angelyn Sills Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sills, East Stroudsburg State College, who is in France with her husband, George, preparing for work with Church World Service in Africa).

LE CHAMBON, France — Money does talk!

Since we have been living in France, we have been eating, spending money, cycling round the countryside, riding buses and trains to other places, talking to anyone who enjoys exchanging ideas, and absorbing as much as possible.

Through the processes of living here we have become increasingly aware of the gap between the standard of living in France and at home. Contrasts are great.

Services are cheap. My husband gets a razor haircut and a mustache trim for 90 cents. Several months ago he went to the doctor for a severe chest cold. Where at home one can't walk into a doctor's office for less than $5, his examination was $2. On the other hand, the medicine he bought was expensive.

Though generalizations are often dangerous, I feel that I can make the following statement safely. Any item which requires any kind of manufacturing and technical expertise (from clothes to radios) is more expensive in France than in any other European country and is more than or equal to the price of the same quality item in the United States.

Camera film and developing is tremendously expensive. Gasoline is over $1 a gallon. A small electric coil for heating a single cup of water for tea or coffee cost us $2.60.

Because of this and because the average salary is about one half that in the States, a French home has not the same quality or quantity of material goods and many do without.

A washing machine and TV set (which receives France's two nationalized stations) are found in most U.S. and urban French homes. But here in the country it is not uncommon to see a woman with her several children doing the laundry by hand.

For a French salary, cars are very expensive. The streets and highways are congested with bicycles and motorbikes except on the very coldest of winter days. The most popular car is a Deu Chevaux (Two Horses). It is a very plain unadorned set of wheels and seats covered with a drab grey, blue or green body. Its top speed is 60 mph but it always arrived where it's aimed, sooner or later.

Here in the country there simply isn't as much money to spend as in the cities. This is reflected in the lack of fad clothing and high fashion. In

Winter snow, left-hand drive confusing to New Zealander

CANADENSIS — Driving on the "wrong" side of the road, a first white Christmas, and introducing Americans to bacon-and-egg pie will be part of the memories of a year's visit to the United States for Miss Helen Oppelt of Auckland, New Zealand.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Oppelt, former residents of Canadensis, Helen is currently visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Oppelt of Canadensis.

The hazel-eyed, sandy-haired young woman shared the recipe for bacon-and-egg pie, a New Zealand dish, during an interview in her aunt's home recently.

"We make it for a quick meal; lunch or supper," she said. "And sometimes we make it the night before to take cold or warmed over to eat while we are at the beach." Her recipe called for a pastry-lined pie dish, into which bacon strips and eggs are placed. The top pastry is sealed over it and placed in a 375 degree oven for 15 or 20 minutes.

"Everyone was amazed," she laughed, "when I told them about it. They didn't like the sound of it, but after we made some, they changed their minds." The Canadensis Oppelts tried it for a supper with applause on the side and pronounced it fine.

The topic of food was a good one since, as Helen explained, they have five meals a day in New Zealand. "We have breakfast, morning tea, lunch, tea and supper." She totaled the meals off on her fingers. "That is if you want to get fancy." The popular television snack in the US is called supper.

Names for things familiar to Helen and her cousin Phyllis are different. Helen listed jumpers, pinafores, frocks and puffs. Phyllis explained these were (in similar order) bulky-knit sweaters, jumpers, dresses and bars. Helen called the baby stroller a push chair or pram. At times, her accent which is similar to an English accent, made familiar words unfamiliar. The address of her grandmother, Mrs. Edith Oppelt of Chester, was written down phonetically as a new portion of the state. Helen hastened to correct the misunderstanding.

"I sailed from New Zealand, October 15, via the Fiji Islands, Acapulco, Panama — we passed Cuba — and landed in Miami where I spent a week visiting friends. Then I flew to Philadelphia where I visited with my grandmother." She reported.

Miss Helen Oppelt

"This was my first white Christmas," she said. "I had seen snow before, but never so much, and of course never at Christmas time. It is the middle of our summer when Christmas comes and all the children receive beach and sand toys and play with them out of doors on Christmas day."

The reference to snow brought laughter. Phyllis added, "Yes, she loves the snow." Helen laughed again. "Oh, don't tell about that!" The two girls, one sandy-haired, the other dark-haired grinned at each other across the table. "It was fun," Phyllis said, laughing at her cousin. "One night it began to snow hard about 9 p.m. and Helen had to go out and sleighride with Cliff and Sherry (the two younger cousins)." Helen laughed and agreed.

Helen explained her trip. "I worked dressmaking four years and saved to come and visit the US which I heard so much about." Her schooling included commercial and business courses, "in case I didn't like dressmaking." But she likes dressmaking, which she has continued to do for family and friends in this area during her visit. She purchased clothing recently which needed repairs. "Look at how this was put together," she said, surprised, "Here women do piece work. I finish the entire garment," she explained.

In New Zealand, "trades" as Helen described them, are planned for young people to enter with an apprenticeship. Following a period as an apprentice, the youth receives papers signifying proficiency in a particular field. "My brother is an apprentice as an auto mechanic. After five years, he will be finished and will receive his papers," Helen explained. As a sidelight, Helen noted that students going to the university to learn to be teachers are paid while they are learning, similar to the apprenticeship situation in trades.

On her return to New Zealand in November, Helen plans to return to her dressmaking job in an "exclusive women's clothing workroom. We make the whole garment for various shops in Auckland," she said, "It is quality, not quantity."

Comparing the standard of living in New Zealand with life in the United States, Helen said, "It is totally different." We haven't as much snow as you have, except in the Southern Alps. And the weather here is COLD." She said "cold" weather at home was about 40 degrees. While the thermometer does register lower, the cold weather she prepares for is only about 40 degrees, consequently the word has an added dimension for her here.

Her first experience driving on the right-hand side of the road was frightening. "In Mexico, we had a good driver, but there was a lot of traffic, and we were on the wrong side of the road. I nearly had a fit!" She laughed. "At home, we keep left, so the idea of keeping right was new to me."

The living pace in New Zealand is slower, Helen said, and there are more activities available for young people. She listed rugby, swimming, horse racing and basketball.

As for television, there is only one channel in Auckland which operates from 2 p.m. to 11 p.m. or so. "We can get one of the channels in Wellington, Christchurch or Dunedin if there is a special show and they put in the special linkage," she explained.

"We have about half the amount of commercials you have," the hazel-eyed young lady said laughing. "And people complain about that. If they could see what you have to put up with they wouldn't complain." There is no difference in radio programming, music or commercials. "We have the same type of commercials as you have and the announcers talk the same way."

Clothing styles were the first thing to be noted by the young seamstress. "When we got to Miami, styles were the same as at home, short-skirt skirts and styles quite a bit alike. At home we have styles as up-to-date as those in New York and other fashion centers."

Asked if she had any romantic plans, Helen smiled. "No, I saved money and came for my trip now because I thought if I married I might not be able to afford the trip here unless I married a Texas millionaire."

Magazine supplement plan geared toward area surge

By BERT WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

EAST STROUDSBURG — A special magazine supplement intended "to give a major new surge in the tourism-recreation industry," was made public recently by Donald Moyer executive director of the Economic Development Council of Northeast Pennsylvania (EDCNP).

Moyer made public the 16-page supplement during a luncheon meeting of the Stroudsburg Rotary Club in the Holiday Inn.

The magazine supplement, entitled "The New Travel-Oriented Northeastern Pennsylvania," is part of the nationally circulated "Travel Investment Magazine."

The magazine, Moyer pointed out, is the first recreation-tourism publication geared to provide information and data to those interested in investing in the industry. Moyer said the magazine will go to 15,000 leading travel and recreation investors all over the nation.

The supplement was prepared by Conway Research, Inc. of Atlanta, Ga., with the cooperation of the EDCNP.

Moyer told the crowd of Rotarians that "We (EDCNP) believe that this is going to give a major new surge in the tourism-recreation industry."

Primarily, the supplement describes the investment opportunities within the seven-county EDCNP region. These counties are Monroe, Pike, Wayne, Carbon, Lackawanna, Luzerne and Schuylkill.

Moyer explained that the seven-county region has what he described a good "liveability" and stressed that this supplement will make investors aware of the region and its opportunities.

Moyer said it is hoped that through circulation of the magazine, industry will inquire about the region and investigate the possibilities of relocating.

The article cites the year-round recreational features of the Poconos, the highway network and its proximity to New York City where two-thirds of the nation's industrial headquarters are located.

Moyer, when questioned after his address, agreed that the invitation for investors to come into the region will also bring speculators. But he said "We have them now."

Moyer hoped, however, that the speculators could be kept to a minimum since the magazine's article suggested that industries contact the EDCNP if they are interested in locating in the region.

The availability of manpower, especially in Monroe County, is a problem, Moyer agreed. Although manpower is at a premium, he said that the normal economic cycle would probably solve the shortage.

Facilities
With the national call to investors to come to the region, Moyer said the "investors are coming" and the local governments have responsibility. The responsibilities are to provide facilities, such as those for solid waste. He also said adequate regulations will be needed to protect the region.

The magazine article declares, "Expert observers predict that the new wave of development coming in Northeast Pennsylvania—building a playground for the citizens of sprawling East Coast Megalopolis—will make the coal mining boom of past generations look small by comparison."

"Already, alert investors are moving in with major projects,

Enrollment closing

STROUDSBURG — Registration for the YMCA Scuba Class will close on Monday, Jake Jacobi, instructor, announced Friday.

Summer camping trips were reported by George Traugh, Scoutmaster. Traugh said that a week of camp has been planned for the month of July at Camp Minsi. He explained this was one of the advancement projects.

Camping trip
The second such project is a camping trip in the Adirondack Mountains of New York State. According to arrangements, the local scouts are to travel to the site by bus where they will spend a week camping. The dates are August 16 to 24.

Norman Hitt, Alvion Van Driesen, Karl Texter, Rev. George Weimland and Donald Russell are other committee members who heard of Traugh's efforts to secure a permanent meeting place for the Boy Scouts.

They have met at Buck Hill Falls, the Barrett YMCA and the POS of A Hall. Currently meetings are each Thursday at the YMCA at 7 p.m.

The troop has been sponsored for 20 consecutive years by the Pocono Mountain Rotary Club, which has aided boys in various efforts.

The efforts by Traugh for a permanent Scout Hut, have been put forth in relation to

County of Monroe seal

By PETE GRADY
Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — A survey of area gas pumps and food scales has failed to reveal a single green inspection seal of the 1968 Monroe County inspector of weights and measures, Gerald D. Canfield, of Bartonsville.

Canfield was appointed to the position of county inspector of weights and measures by the present Monroe County Commissioners in 1967 at an annual salary of $2,400. His duties as inspector began January 1968.

Out of 25 gas stations and food stores spot checked in Barrett Township, Swiftwater, Scotrun, Bartonsville, Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg there were no green inspection seals signed by Canfield.

Only one of Canfield's seals could be found, and that was in the Swiftwater Post Office, dated July 19, 1968.

Most of the seals were signed by the 1967 county inspector of weights and measures, Floyd Butz of East Stroudsburg.

The last time the Buck Hill Post Office's scales were checked by the county was in 1966 by county inspector of weights and measures John Detrick, East Stroudsburg R.D.

2. The scales were also checked in 1967 by a state inspector.

No seals
Some area gas station pumps had no inspection stickers but all these pumps were new models without a glass cover on the face of the pump dial.

Owners of these pumps said inspection stickers had been put on the faces but due to rain and snow the stickers became unglued and fell off.

Those gas pumps that had glass faces revealed Butz's green county inspection seal but with no designation as to day, month or even year of the inspection.

A former state inspector of weights and measures John Schimmel of Anasomink said that it was possible there had been a date on the seals but due to the hot sun through the glass the markings could fade out.

Canfield said that when he went to Harrisburg for a two-week indoctrination course for the position, someone in Harrisburg had told him that inspecting gas pumps and scales was "a hit and miss" proposition.

When asked how many inspections he had made since January Canfield said he wasn't certain but that he had filed a six-month report of inspections to the commissioners in July.

Monroe County Commissioner chairman Elwood C. Hintze said he would look into the number of inspections Canfield has made in the county. He expects another six-month inspection from Canfield as soon as possible.

Hintze said a spot check of all pumps and scales in Monroe County would be quite an undertaking, but he added if area scales and pumps are not being inspected, the situation would have to be investigated.

Schimmel who was state inspector of weights and measures in Monroe, Pike, Wayne, Northampton, Bucks and Luzerne counties from 1955 to 1967 said that a county inspector should check every scale and weighing device in the area.

"The state has stopped state men from checking gas pumps and are now leaving it up to the county inspectors," Schimmel said.

Commenting on Canfield's "hit and miss" remark, Detrick said he hit just about every gas pump and scale in the county and he added that he had a signature from the gas station and store owners to prove he had inspected their pumps and scales.

Airport lighting operating

MOUNT POCONO — The runway lighting system at Pocono Mountain Airport in Mt. Pocono is operating again as of Friday night, H. LeRoy Dengler, chairman of the airport authority announced.

The runway lights had not been functioning since Jan. 12 when an underground cable connection was broken, apparently due to frost activity in the ground, according to Dengler.

"The break burned out the main control and regulating unit and inspectors had to check each individual light unit along the runway until the break could be located. There are 77 individual lights," Dengler explained.

Location of break
Since the cable is buried some 24 inches underground, instruments were used to find the break.

Dengler said Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. shipped a substitute regulating unit which was installed by Mount Pocono Electric, Friday. The unit will be used until the damaged part can be repaired or replaced by the authority.

Dengler said a "Notum" or emergency message was transmitted to all airports in the United States, notifying them at the time of the loss of the lights and another was sent when the system was restored.

C. R. Ayers to head SPCA again

STROUDSBURG — Miss Charlotte R. Ayers, of Stroudsburg was re-elected for the fourth consecutive year as president of the Monroe County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals during the recent reorganization meeting.

Miss Ayers has been an active member of the society since 1952 and was instrumental in its reactivation in 1962. She was elected president in 1966.

John R. Kistler of East Stroudsburg was appointed first vice president and Mrs. Helen Ecker, corresponding secretary.

Re-elected were Mr. Frank Kerr, East Stroudsburg, as second vice president; Mrs. Alice Gelasco, East Stroudsburg, recording secretary and Mrs. Lawrence Lamhart, Stroudsburg, as treasurer.

Named to board
Russell Irwin of East Stroudsburg was elected as a member of the board who will act as financial advisor and fund raising chairman.

Samuel Newman, Stroudsburg attorney, remains solicitor since his appointment in 1962.

Committee chairmen appointed were: Mrs. Kouis Hopke, shelter management; Arthur Wilkinson, membership; Fred Walter, publicity; Mrs. Ruth A. Repsher, sales projects.

Miss Ayers announced she will make the annual request for funds from the Monroe County commissioners on Monday.

Open house at hospital

EAST STROUDSBURG — Plans have been completed for the open house celebration at the General Hospital of Monroe County on Sunday, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

E.S. attacks from new angle in war with water problems

By BOB GROFF
Pocono Record Reporter
EAST STROUDSBURG — Customers of the East Stroudsburg Water Department have long been plagued by the problem of "dirty" water and, in some areas of the borough, not enough water.

But as it has been the problem of the consumer, so has it been the problem of borough officials who have been and are attempting to cope with and defeat it.

The most recent step taken to help solve the problem was made by the borough council on Nov. 5, 1968, when it was decided to replace the firm of Buck, Siefert and Jost, Philadelphia, consulting engineers since the late 1930s.

BSJ had made some recommendations to the borough for improving and expanding its water system. The firm was responsible for the construction of the new filter plant in 1965, and made suggestions for the distribution system itself. These suggestions were acted upon and in some areas the results were good.

Unfortunately for BSJ and for the residents, the suggestions and good results were not numerous enough nor anywhere near fast enough. Dirty water still exists and there still are customers with too little water pressure.

The borough now has a new firm as consultants, Middle Atlantic States Engineering, Newtown, Pa., was hired the same night that BSJ were fired.

New processes
Although the new engineers have not yet had an opportunity to review the entire system, two new processes have been started to try to curb the problem. The results will not be evident today or tomorrow, but there will be results in the near future.

From 1966 to the end of this fiscal year, the borough will spend $77,743 on the maintenance and improvement of the water system. This naturally does not count the $800,000 spent for the filter plant in 1965.

This is quite a bit of money

to put into an attempt to solve two problems: dirty water and low water pressure.

One of the primary reasons for the dirty water problem stems from the fact that the borough has an earthen reservoir. This proves to be a terrific source of harassment whenever there is a particularly heavy rain or some other activity which disturbs the reservoir.

Problem remains
The first thought in combating this was to build a filter plant. The plant was opened in the summer of 1965. In the summer of 1966, the problem was still serious.

The consultants then suggested the cleaning process for the distribution system. This effort had mixed results and the problem is still in existence.

Another reason for the dirty water is that within many of the borough's mains there exists sediments and deposits. These tend to break loose, causing more particles to be loose in the water.

The sediments accumulated in the mains primarily before the filter plant was built. A new process was started Monday, at the recommendation of Middle Atlantic, which is hoped will curb the particles from breaking loose.

With the use of chemicals, the mains will be lined and the sediments will be sealed underneath the liner.

The other recommendation of the consultants was to increase the amount of chemicals used to coagulate the dirt particles at the filter plant. This is done to make the filtering process more efficient.

Other efforts to alleviate the dirty water situation are the constant cleaning and relining of mains.

The second large problem facing the borough is that of hydraulic imbalance, or more simply put, not enough water pressure in some areas. If there is heavy use of water in one area, such as in the event of a fire, other areas will lose their pressure.

Growth difficulty
This situation is becoming more apparent as the borough continues to grow. A big factor in the borough's growth and water usage is the East Stroudsburg State College.

A major element in this problem is the fact that many of the borough's mains are still only four inches in diameter. And, unfortunately, in a few cases, the efficiency of the small mains is greatly reduced by the sediment which has accumulated in them.

In some cases, as much as two inches of sediment has been found in some of the four inch mains, reducing the capacity to two inches.

The borough is attempting to solve its distribution system by installing new mains, such as the 12 inch main from N. Courtland St. to the stand pipe on Franklin Hill Road. Also major replacements were made on East Broad and Anasomink streets.

In any case, the borough council and all the borough officers are taking noticeable steps in the right direction to solve the problems. All that is required according to officials, is patience.

Reaser is also personnel manager at the hospital.

Back on both feet

Bob Uguccioni, Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau's executive director, almost missed a couple of days work after last weekend's snowmobile bit at Hawley.

Bob fell off a snowmobile while riding through the snow and injured his leg.

He's back on his own two feet again, after several days of limping.

Tough on heads

Ray "Mutch" Mutchler recently struck his head while putting beer in the cooler at one of the area taverns he services.

The last word heard from "Mutch" as he rubbed his head was: "My, but that will feel good when the pain goes away."

Dream almost true

Attorney Elmer D. Christine had a dream one night last week. He dreamt he was elected president of the Monroe County Bar Assn. at a salary of $25,000 a year.

He woke up to find that only the first part of his dream was true.

Junior firemen leader

Herman Randal Smeltz, president of Acme Hose Co. in East Stroudsburg, is at it again. This time he is carrying the banner for a junior firemen's organization of his fire company.

Smeltz recently received a life membership from the fire company but that don't put him on the shelf.

Gordon Coy has carried the ball on the publicity campaign for the Exchange Club's Pop Concert to be held at East Stroudsburg High School at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Proceeds from the concert will be used by the club for its Youth program.

Jury rules motorist as guilty

STROUDSBURG — William J. Palmer, Stroudsburg R.D. 2, Friday was found guilty by a jury of a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Monroe County Judge Arlington W. Williams accepted the verdict from the jury which had only been in deliberation for one half hour.

Palmer was continued to remain at liberty and bail was continued. Imposition of sentence was deferred pending presentence investigation.

Final trial
The final criminal trial of the January term will get underway Monday and is expected to run into Tuesday.

Being tried will be George Wall, 20, 224 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, charged with involuntary manslaughter and assault and battery; Alan Kochera, 18, Cresco R.D. 1, charged with involuntary manslaughter, and Eugene F. Singer, 15 Collins St., Stroudsburg, also charged with assault and battery.

Civil cases are expected to be brought before the court on Wednesday.

Serving on the Palmer jury were Alvena Melick and Lloyd Miller, both of Stroudsburg; John Dougherty, East Stroudsburg; Sheldon Butz and Walter McClelland, both of Stroud Twp.; Marion J. Koerner and Margaret Nelson, both of Paradise Twp.; Adan Bohner and Albert C. Burger, both of Eldred Twp.; Eleanor M. Biles, Barrett Twp.; Jean W. Cramer, Coolbaugh Twp.; and Sterling Schoonover, Smithfield Twp.

Intersection scene of car, truck crash

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg Police Friday at 10:15 p.m. investigated a truck-car accident at the intersection of Prospect and E. Brown streets. There were no injuries and no estimate of damage.

The drivers were William F. Dalzell of Main St., Delaware Water Gap, and John Zabawa of Moscow. Dalzell was driving a sedan and Zabawa a tractor-trailer loaded with United States Mail.

Police said Dalzell apparently failed to stop for the red flashing light in the intersection and struck the left rear tire on the trailer.

Different directions
Dalzell was traveling west on E. Brown St. and Zabawa was going north on Prospect St.

Zabawa stopped, checked his vehicle and saw there was no damage and continued. He was stopped at the toll bridge in Delaware Water Gap by police.

The force of the crash spun the Dalzell car around and it came to a stop in front of the Esso service station on the corner.

The rig was not damaged but the Dalzell car was towed from the scene.

Salem board in session

HAMLIN — The Salem Township School Board met in executive session Friday night to review the three unit reorganization plan of Wayne County Schools.

The board met without its solicitor, Robert Conway, and did not anticipate making any decision as to whether it would endorse the county's reorganization plan.

The plan, approved by the Department of Public Instruction, would make Salem Township a part of the current Western Wayne Joint School District.

Penn-Stroud garage receives face lifting

Workmen for Donald Marsh Inc., Pen Argyl construction company began demolishing the garage of the historic Penn-Stroud Hotel Friday. The hotel has closed for major renovations. The construc-

JIM MURRAY

Kazmaier all business

When Richard William Kazmaier Jr. won the Heisman Trophy in 1951, he wasn't sure that, like Bill Mauldin's celebrated hero of Anzio, he wouldn't rather have the two aspirin. Or, like Lincoln's friend being ridden out of town on a rail — if it wasn't for the honor of the thing, he would have hung up.

The problem was, Dick Kazmaier wasn't like, say, the total offense leader of the Big Twenty — or the highest-scoring halfback in the history of East Cricket Tech — or the sparkplug of the University of Southern Islam's Marauding Mountebanks. For Dick Kazmaier, getting tapped for the Heisman meant he was the football player of the year — and, at Princeton, that was a little like a girl on her way to a nunnery getting tabbed as Miss Sexpot of 1958.

You see, Princeton had been a little embarrassed by Mr. Kazmaier. When he enrolled, he LOOKED like a Princeton man. Only 150 pounds, he had passed Latin, he didn't have too much starch in his collar, and he liked wearing ties. They couldn't have been more pleased with Algonzo Swinburne.

But, then, they gave Dick a football, and the Ivy League got nervous. When he rolled up 348 yards on Cornell and beat them 53-15, the university didn't know whether to turn F. Scott Fitzgerald's picture to the wall — or phone up Notre Dame and see if a terrible mistake hadn't been made in somebody's admission papers. Some old grads were afraid he'd have a bad effect on the bond market if he kept it up.

No stock in bears

You can imagine what happened when the Chicago Bears drafted him. The faculty was terrified. Harvard would drop them off the debating schedule, they were sure. Vassar would start impounding their letters. "My God!" the Fine Arts school panicked. "We'll have card tricks next!" "The Big Game will be against Texas A & M!" wailed the campus intellectuals. The president of the university, rumor had it, called in his advisers and said, "OK, what's a Chicago Bear?" Consensus was, it was a Midwest speculator with no faith in the economy. In fact, the prey had just gotten used to the idea of an "All-American" on campus. Therefore, he had assumed it was a right-wing political group in Texas.

Fortunately for old Nassau, Dick Kazmaier proved to be a tiger that didn't change its spots. He enrolled at the Harvard Business School, not Wrigley Field. The old grads were relieved, although one of them was heard to murmur, "Kaz didn't have to go THAT far! A job at Lee Higginson would have sufficed."

When the first two Heisman winners, back in the dark ages of the game, were Yalemen, most press-boxers just assumed the award was kind of an upside down Phi Beta Kappa key. The award didn't cross the Mississippi until about the time the first jet did. And it got across the Rockies, so to speak, on foot. Some thought the award was just two free dinners down at Morey's, it stayed in New Haven so long.

But Kazmaier was the only Ivy Leaguer to win it in the past 30 years. And nobody who won it ever made noise eating soup or stirred his coffee with a fork. In fact, a Rhodes scholar came out of the Heisman balloting (Pete Dawkins), a dentist (Les Horvath), and a military hero of World War II (Nile Kinnick).

Dick Kazmaier, who has a carpet on the floor over at AMF Industries these days, will be out to the Coast to honor another Heisman Trophy winner by presenting him with the W. J. Voit Award this weekend. And he couldn't miss noting how times have changed. At Princeton, the question was, whether the Heisman Trophy measured up to the institution. The question in 1958 is whether the institution, the Buffalo Bills, measures up to the trophy. The president of the Bills, Ralph Wilson, has already offered to move his franchise in any direction to attract the Heisman Trophy winner, O. J. Simpson.

But Kazmaier at the Voit luncheon, may offer O. J. still one other alternative. "O.J.?" he may ask. "Have you ever thought of the Harvard Business School?"

Made Colts 17-point favorite

Jimmy the Greek, top Bonehead

DALLAS (UPI)—Jimmy the Greek says he is accurate in the selection of professional football winners 76 per cent of the time, even with the point spread.

The Dallas Bonehead Club, however, likes perfection. After all, what if a parachute jumper was accurate only 76 per cent of the time?

The Bonehead Club, a group of well-to-do businessmen who insist on rewarding monumental errors wherever monumental errors are found, actually does not mind a little non-perfection now and then. But it could not overlook Jimmy the Greek's Super Bowl oddsmaking—Baltimore by 17.

For that deed, Jimmy the Greek Snyder, the best known oddsmaker in the country, was honored Friday by the club as Bonehead of the Year.

The award began in 1964, when the Boneheads honored the Naval Academy football team, "which challenged the University of Texas and the entire state in the Cotton Bowl." Texas won the game 28-6.

Other past winners included Minnesota defensive end Jim Marshall who ran the wrong way with a fumble, and a television network which beamed a split screen telecast of the Gemini 7 spacecraft and a football game "thereby confusing everybody."

The Boneheads were hard pressed to choose this year's champion mistake maker.

"There were performances of virtuoso caliber," said the head of the club, Charley Heidrick.

"There was the case of the missing down in the Los Angeles-Chicago game. We might have given it to the National Broadcasting Company for its classic Heidi vs. The American Football League." Or perhaps Carroll Rosenbloom (Baltimore Colt owner) for firing Weeb Ewbank (New York Jet coach).

But the Boneheads finally decided Jimmy the Greek pulled the biggest foulup since 1910 "when a Patent Office official suggested they close down the office because there was nothing left to invent."

"We decided on Jimmy," said Heidrick, "because through his cute maneuver he not only fired up the Jets, but cleaned out the pocketbooks of everyone in Baltimore. It led to financial distress all over the country."

The Greek received not only a silver trophy topped by a nut dish, but was awarded an autographed picture of Joe Namath.

"I've been trying to get this club's attention for two years," said the Greek, who produces his sporting odds each week from Las Vegas.

"I tried picking Nixon over Humphrey, but Nixon went ahead and won. I picked the Cowboys and the Jets in the Super Bowl, but I was at least half right and nobody noticed. I only had one chance left and the Jets came through for me."

What are the chances that he will become the first person to ever win the Bonehead of the Year award two years in a row. "No odds," said the Greek.

Bill Rigney out of hospital

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—California Angels manager Bill Rigney was released from Monterey Hospital Friday, apparently none the worse from a "fainting attack" he suffered Thursday while playing in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

"He is fine now and is free to play golf if he likes," said Dr. Donald Scanlon of the 50-year-old Rigney, who served as player and manager with the Giants before taking over as Angels skipper in 1961, the year the club joined the American League.

Rigney felt faint while playing in the rain-postponed first round of the Crosby tourney Thursday. He was approaching the ninth green at Cypress Point, one of the three courses used in the tournament, when he became ill.

Dr. Phil Smith, a friend playing a hole behind, took Rigney to the hospital where he remained overnight before Dr. Scanlon released him at noon Friday.

"Mr. Rigney had a fainting attack which included rapid heart beat," said Dr. Scanlon. "It was not a heart attack and this is a pretty common occurrence. He's fine now."

Rigney has a history of stomach ulcers and is known for his explosions, especially in the heat of games when he has taken exception to an umpire's ruling. Dr. Scanlon said Rigney's illness Thursday in no way would prevent him from taking up his managerial duties with the Angels.

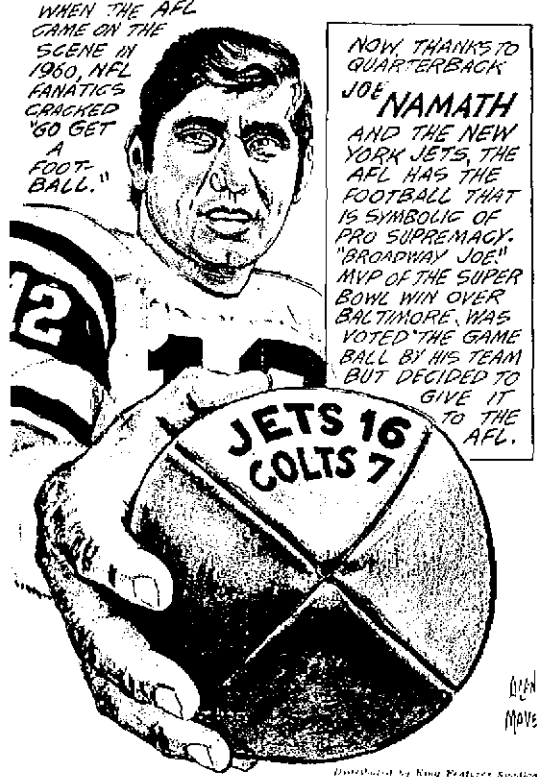

"This happens from time to time to a lot of people," said Dr. Scanlon. "It could be caused by any number of things."

Koosman escapes serious injury

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jerry Koosman, a 19-game winner for the New York Mets last year, escaped what might have been a serious injury Thursday night. Koosman was popping corn at his home on Long Island when he spilled some hot butter on his left hand. He went to see the Mets' physician, Dr. Peter Lamotte, Friday and was informed that the injury was not serious. Dr. Lamotte bandaged the hand and advised the young southpaw to keep the bandage on a few days.

But Kazmaier at the Voit luncheon, may offer O. J. still one other alternative. "O.J.?" he may ask. "Have you ever thought of the Harvard Business School?"

Browns' Green advised to quit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The career of Cleveland Browns' running back Ernie Green apparently has come to an end because of a series of knee injuries.

"Green has been advised to quit playing football," said Coach Blanton Collier Friday, here for an awards banquet.

The 6-foot-2, 212-pound Green recently underwent surgery on his left knee. Orthopedic surgeon Dr. Mal Brahms, assisted by team physician Dr. Vic Ippolito, removed a torn cartilage.

Ippolito said the University of Louisville star had another damaged ligament that was irreparable.

"The operation was highly successful," said Collier, "but it is highly questionable whether Green should play or not."

Owner Art Modell, when contacted in Cleveland, said "the outlook is not encouraging." "The final decision will be made primarily by Green and some by the doctors after Ernie has had the opportunity to fully test the knee," said Modell.

"However, in planning for the future we must assume Ernie will not be back and must plan accordingly for the draft next week," said Modell.

Ippolito said he does not want to make any predictions and will just wait until Green is out of the hospital and the cast is removed which will be in three or four months.

Charlie Haraway, who replaced Green for most of the 1968 season, will probably start in his place next season, Collier said.

Haraway, a third year man out of San Jose State College, carried 91 times for 334 yards. Green, who has been with the Browns for seven seasons, was obtained from the Green Bay Packers in his rookie year.

His best years were in 1966 and 1967 when he teamed up with Leroy Kelly.

Robert Conklin

GREAT LAKES, ILL. — Seaman Apprentice Robert Conklin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Conklin Sr., of Stroudsburg, RD 3, has graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill.

He was part of a special company formed to supplement the Navy's Underwater Demolition Team and Sea, Air and Land (SEAL) programs.

The success of the SEALs in Vietnam has prompted the Navy to enter the recruit ranks to expand training in order to meet the expanded military commitments. This was the first such company formed by the Navy to prepare men for the advanced UDT-SEAL training at Coronado, Calif.

After 18 weeks of training at Coronado he will undergo three weeks of jump training and then receive an assignment.

Dennis Courtright

EAST STROUDSBURG — SP4 Dennis H. Courtright, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Courtright, East Stroudsburg RD 1, has been assigned to Kishine Yokohama and Accounting Office, Yokohama, Japan.

He received his training in Georgia, South Carolina, and finance school at Indianapolis, Ind., after enlisting Dec. 4, 1967, for three years of service.

The East Stroudsburg High School graduate surprised his parents early Sunday morning, Dec. 22 when he called from his assigned station in Japan to convey his holiday greetings and say that he was unable to come home. He has been in Japan since June.

Courtright received his bachelor degree from the University of Pittsburgh and was employed by the Philadelphia National Bank before enlisting.

Donald C. Medalis

SAN ANTONIO, TEX. — Airman Donald C. Medalis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. Medalis, of Lake Ariel, RD 3, has completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. He has been assigned to Sheppard AFB, Tex., for training in aircraft maintenance.

Medalis is a 1968 graduate of North Pocono High School, Moscov.

Your Horoscope

By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A rightly determined attitude will carry weight; persuade with tact and respect for others' feelings. Keep everything on time and in place.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Planetary influences are somewhat mixed now, so aim at steadiness. Rely upon knowledge intelligently sought, and upon good advice. Do not depend solely on your own ideas.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Clear thinking and direct action may be necessary for you to overcome interference with your plans. Refuse to let anyone or anything distract you from the tasks at hand.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Fine lunar influences. Be in readiness to act when an opening or opportunity of work appears. You make friends easily; should turn this gift to good advantage.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Some situations are changing. Don't speculate with what you haven't got. Good organization of work matters essential. Direct energies to the areas where they will do the most good.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Be sure of the logic of your statements and decisions; recognize a bright idea—yours or another's. Put into action whatever methods, or procedure are likely to enhance this day's accomplishments.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Do not depart from a rightly chosen path. Listening to your instincts and conscience. There's a world of things to accomplish—now and in the future.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Appraise your own work and actions objectively. Are there loopholes you are using to evade what your abilities could undertake? THIS is the time for review.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — There's a tendency now to take on more than is wise and run down energy, become irritated. Avoid it. Also in your desire to get ahead, avoid overrunning another's field or feelings.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You can be a successful bargainer, but make certain you are not going outside your limits today, or underestimating other potentials. Retrench here necessary.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Planetary influences mixed. It's possible to gain more ground than may seem likely at first, but how you execute tasks, handle "extras," and plan your schedule will tell the story.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — There's a tenseness and mystery about some situations. Clarify wherever you can; do not let matters worsen. If it is up to you in MANY instances to save time, energy, aggravation.

YOU BORN TODAY do not mind how many or how difficult your assignments as long as you feel that you are really achieving but, if hampered in your efforts in any way, you can really go "off the deep end," throw caution to the winds and drop whatever you are doing, regardless of consequences. You MUST avoid impulsiveness, learn self-mastery and self-discipline, or you could lose out on some very fine opportunities. Generosity, strong-mindedness, idealism and love of justice are your outstanding characteristics. You are also intuitive, highly progressive and a born leader.

Birthdate of Somerset Maugham, British author.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 8. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. — 25

354 CHANGES IN THE 1969 VOLVO. 353 MAKE IT WORK BETTER. ONE MAKES IT LOOK WORSE.

The "B-20" emblem on the grill is the only exterior change in this year's Volvo.

Some people think we should have left well enough alone.

Perhaps.

But while our new emblem may not do much for the way a Volvo looks, it says a lot about the way a Volvo works.

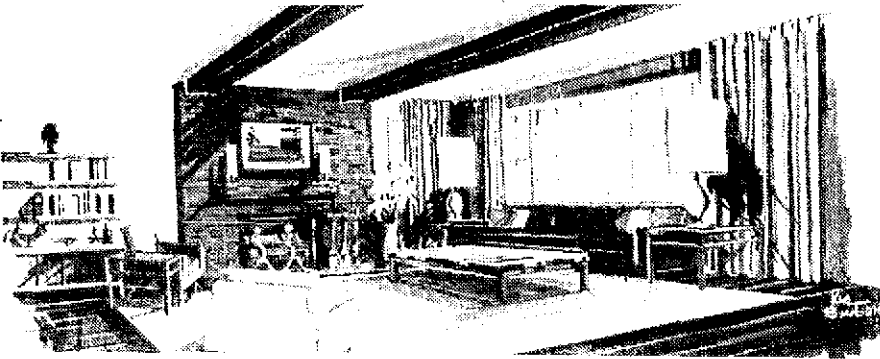

WHAT WE CHANGED.

When you see a Volvo with "B-20" on the front,

Pleasant colonial describes the exterior of this four-bedroom, two-story house; inside, there are more than 1,200 square feet of living area on each floor, making it suitable for a sizable family even though the over-all dimensions are modest.

Exposed girders add to the general atmosphere of informality in this family room. To the right of the large windows is a door (not shown) leading to a large covered porch.

On the house

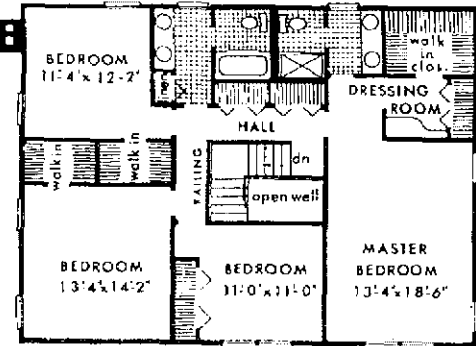

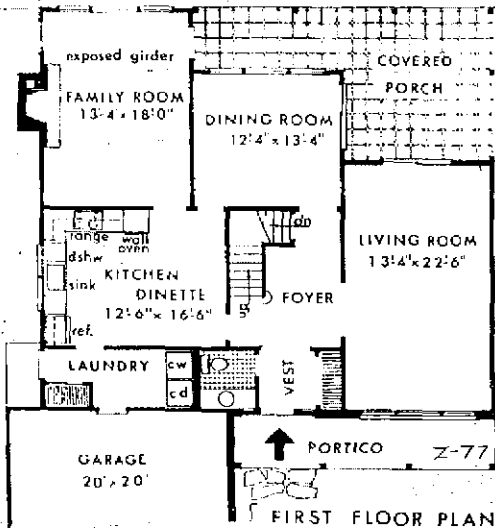

The term "wood filler" is often misinterpreted. Many persons associated it with such items as plastic wood, water putty and similar materials intended to plug cracks, holes or other gaps in finished or unfinished pieces of wood.

When, however, you are told to use a wood filler as the first step in finishing wood, the words recover their true meaning — a product designed to close the pores of certain kinds of wood. Naturally, these woods are those which have large open pores, such as oak, mahogany, walnut, chestnut, elm, butternut, hickory, ash, rosewood and satinwood. They require a wood filler because most persons prefer them to have smooth surfaces, although some see them as more beautiful when the pores are left as they are.

Most wood fillers come in semi-paste form. It is important to read the label on the container to determine the type of thinner to be used. The filler is brushed on the wood, first with the grain, then against.

Z-77 STATISTICS

Design Z-77 has a living room, dining room, family room, kitchen-dinette, lavatory and foyer on the first floor, with a total of 1,220 square feet of habitable area. The two-car garage and the laundry add 480 square feet. There are four bedrooms and two baths on the second floor, totaling 1,270 square feet. The plans call for a full basement. Over-all dimensions are 41 feet four inches by 58 feet one inch.

Floor plans: Outdoor living is made easy here, with a huge covered porch that can be entered from the living room, the dining room and the family room, as well as from the outside. On the second floor, note the large amount of closet space in the bedrooms.

Here's the answer

QUESTION: I am 64 years old and will retire within a few weeks. In order to find things for myself to do during my retirement, I recently became interested in woodworking and have read everything possible on the subject. In the instructions for some projects, the use of a rasp is recommended. In others, they say to use a file. Can you tell me what the difference is and when I should use a rasp and when a file?

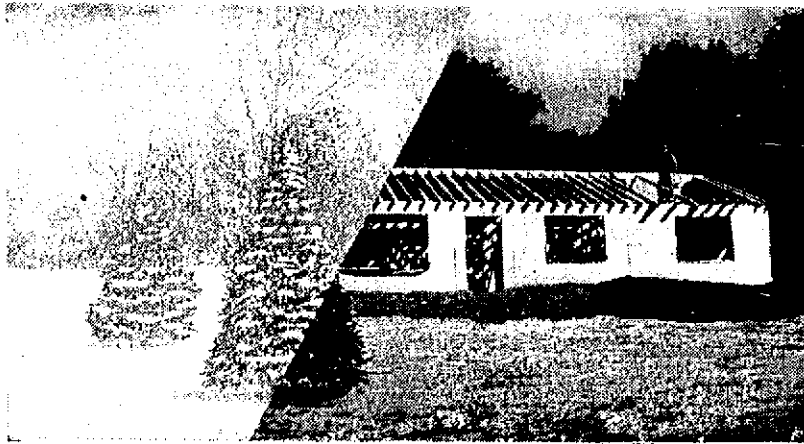

ANSWER: Congratulations on your decision. Woodworking is a most satisfying hobby — and will, at times, save you money. A rasp cuts faster and deeper, due to its raised surface. A file is for finer work. The difference might be compared to that between a fine sandpaper and rough sandpaper. Generally, but by no means always, a rasp is used for wood, a file for metal. A new type of rasp has made its appearance on the market in recent years. It comes in many varieties, shaped like planes, files, drums, etc. Because it has exceptionally sharp, open teeth, it cuts large amounts of wood rapidly. It also has less tendency to clog than ordinary rasps.

QUESTION: Our septic tank is giving us trouble. Is there any way I can clean it myself?

ANSWER: No. This is a job for professionals with professional equipment.

Soon it'll be Spring...

And you'll be building that home you've always wanted.

Talk to us now and you can save about $500.

At midnight on January 31st, the prices of Ridge homes must go up about $500. But you can do something right now to beat the increase. And we'll do all we can to help. If you're in the same boat with a lot of other families who want a new home, you're concerned about rising prices, but you're just not ready to start building. Okay, then, how's this? Give us a $100 deposit now, before that January 31st deadline, and we'll guarantee delivery of your Ridge home anytime before June 30th, 1969, at the Fall 1968 price.

And here's the clincher: If you still haven't taken delivery by June 30th, or if you change your mind for any reason, we'll return every cent of your $100.

Think about it. You can save $500 by making a refundable $100 deposit before the price rise deadline.

If you like to save money (and who doesn't) come in and talk it over right now.

House of the week

Architect calls it All-American home

BY ANDY LANG

After creating Design Z-77 for House of the Week, architect Samuel Paul designated it as "the All-American Home." Asked why, he replied:

"Because it meets the living requirements of the average American family with children. It provides comfort and convenience, accommodates privacy for the individual and is conducive to total family living."

The focus of activity in this four-bedroom house is the family room, completely separated from any other room. It is strategically located next to the kitchen. If there are teenagers in the family, they can entertain and enjoy the use of the family room while the parents can be comfortably detached in the living room on the other side of the house. In fact, the teenagers and their friends can enter from the side without disturbing the central foyer. If there are young children or infants in the family, the mother can easily keep a watchful eye from the kitchen and the laundry area. Housekeeping is made easier with the family room away from the center portion of the house. There is no need to keep it shipshape at all times. It can be what it should be — a lived-in room. This one, with its exposed girders and a huge Early American fireplace, has a Colonial feeling.

Going to the formal part of the house, the central foyer theme is a typical American concept. There is a flowing transition from the outside to the foyer: first, through a front garden into a charming portico; then, inside the house through a vestibule into the foyer.

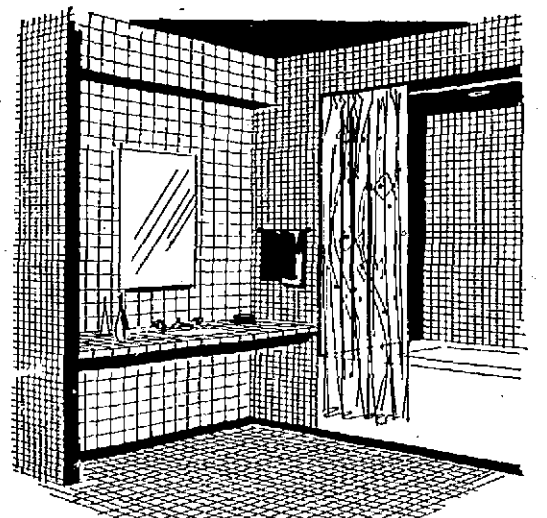

To the right of the foyer is the isolated living room for quiet and formal living. The sliding glass doors to the rear open on to a covered porch. At the other end, in the front, are large windows spanning almost the entire wall. The dining room is the rear of the foyer and also has access to the porch. Turning left off the foyer is the combined kitchen and dinette, with an efficient L-shaped arrangement for complete equipment and cabinets. There is ample space for informal dining for six to eight persons. It's only a few steps from the front door. Off the kitchen-dinette area is the laundry and service area, through which the house is entered directly from the two-car garage.

Reverting to the main foyer, an L-shaped stairway ascends to the second floor with a mid-level landing. The stair is dramatized by an open well which terminates at the second-floor ceiling.

Four bedrooms with huge closets and two compartmentalized baths comprise the second floor. The master suite is composed of a large dressing room fitted with a built-in vanity and adjoining closets, one of which is a walk-in.
